Optimal client experience drives our execution and priorities

Issue

A government contractor required a solution to address high-hazard travel risk management.

Solution

Leveraging regulatory knowledge and legal expertise, AIG provided a holistic and compliant approach and established a long-term solution for the client extending across all lines of business.

Why is this important?

Client bound a more cost-effective and robust global program, gained a better understanding of the perils of traveling to high-risk territories, and utilized AIG's risk management tools to reduce the likelihood of employee injuries.

Issue

An international retailer with a complex multinational program was experiencing servicing issues, underlying operational problems, and delayed local policy issuance with its incumbent carrier.

Solution

AIG's market-leading multinational servicing capabilities, expansive global network, and technological capabilities enabled the increased collaboration and transparency that the client sought.

Why is this important?

The combination of technological know-how and human expertise, along with real-time visibility of program status, created the foundation for a stronger relationship built around trust, transparency, and efficient service delivery.
